Area Trends in Employment and Unemployment provides information on labor surplus areas as classified by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The purpose in classifying labor surplus areas is to put the Federal Government's procurement contracts into areas of high unemployment. Employers located in these labor surplus areas are eligible for preference in bidding on Federal contracts.

Questions concerning the labor surplus area classifications may be directed to:

Employment and Training Administration (TEEPA)

Employers located in labor surplus areas and interested in bidding on Federal contracts should consult the Commerce Business Daily which lists Federal contract requirements and indicates those to be awarded under preference procedures.

The Business Service Centers of the General Services Administration are located throughout the country and can provide additional information concerning Federal contracting opportunities. The locations of these Centers are provided at the end of this publication.

Eligible Labor Surplus Areas for Bidding On Federal Contracts

Background

Employers located in labor surplus areas, as classified by the Department of Labor, can be given preference in bidding on Federal procurement contracts. The purpose in providing such preference is to help direct the government's procurement dollars into areas where people are in the most severe economic need, i.e., areas with the highest rates of unemployment.

The concept of channeling Federal procurement contracts into high unemployment areas dates back to the early 1950's. At that time, during the Korean conflict, there was concern among Government officials that high unemployment rates and low utilization of plants and equipment in some areas would lead to erosion of the mobilization base and adversely affect the Nation's production capability. There was also concern that the cost of constructing new plants and relocating workers would cause an unnecessary drain on the Nation's resources.

The Office of Defense Mobilization studied this problem and in February 1952 issued Defense Manpower Policy Number 4 (DMP-4). This policy implemented the idea of directing Federal procurement contracts to employers in labor surplus areas. However, the labor surplus area program was not successful in directing Federal contracts to employers in high unemployment areas, largely because the program lacked a statutory base. This was changed with the enactment on August 4, 1977 of Public Law 95-89. The Act provided statutory authority for the labor surplus area program by amending the Small Business Act and authorizing Federal agencies to set-aside contracts to employers which agree to carry out a substantial portion of the contract in a labor surplus area. "Substantial portion" was defined as meaning over 50 percent of the value of the contract.

As a result of the Urban and Regional Policy Group's review of Federal programs in 1977-1978, additional support was given to the labor surplus area program because of its potential for providing assistance to distressed areas. In March 1978, the General Services Administration was directed to work with each Federal agency in setting targets for placing set-aside contracts in labor surplus areas. The General Services Administration was also directed to monitor the performance of the Federal agencies in meeting the agreed-upon targets and to submit a report to the President every 6 months concerning the progress of each agency in meeting its goals. These directives were later incorporated in Executive Order 12073 which was signed on August 16, 1978.

Public Law 96-302 ("Small Business Administration") was enacted on July 2, 1980 and authorized the labor surplus area program on a permanent basis. Like P.L. 95-89, the Act authorized Federal agencies to set-aside contracts when there is a reasonable expectation that offers will be obtained from a sufficient number of firms to ensure that awards are made at reasonable prices. P.L. 96-302 also altered the priority of awards under the small business and labor surplus area programs, and established a new priority category of partial set-asides for small businesses located in labor surplus areas.

Section 1-103 of Executive Order 12073 assigned to the Department of Labor the responsibility for classifying labor surplus areas. This represented a continuation of the Labor Department's classification responsibilities since the inception of the labor surplus area program in the early 1950's under DMP-4. The Labor Department also has responsibility for classifying labor surplus areas under Executive Order 10582 which implements the Buy American Act.

Procedures for Classifying Labor Surplus Areas

Labor surplus areas are classified on the basis of civil jurisdictions rather than on a metropolitan area or labor market area basis. By classifying labor surplus areas in this way, Federal contracts can be directed to those specific localities with high unemployment rather than to all civil jurisdictions within a metropolitan area, not all of which may suffer from the same degree of unemployment.

Civil jurisdictions are defined as all cities with a population of at least 50,000 and all counties. Townships of 50,000 or more population are also considered as civil jurisdictions in 4 States (Michigan, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania). In Connecticut, Massachusetts, Puerto Rico, and Rhode Island where counties have very limited or no government functions, the classifications are done for individual towns.

A civil jurisdiction is classified as a labor surplus area when its average unemployment rate was at least 20 percent above the average unemployment rate for all States (including the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico) during the previous 2 calendar years. During periods of high national unemployment, the 20 percent ratio is disregarded and an area is classified as a labor surplus area if its unemployment rate during the previous 2 calendar years was 10 percent or more. This 10 percent "ceiling" concept comes into operation whenever the 2-year average unemployment rate for all States was 8.3 percent or above (i.e., 8.3 percent times the 1.20 ratio equals 10.0 percent). Similarly, a "floor" concept of 6.0 percent is used during periods of low national unemployment in order for an area to qualify as a labor surplus area. The 6 percent "floor" comes into effect whenever the average unemployment rate for all States during the 2-year reference period was 5.0 percent or less.

The classification procedures also provide for the designation of labor surplus areas under exceptional circumstances criteria. These procedures permit the regular classification criteria to be waived when an area experiences a significant increase in unemployment which is not temporary or seasonal and which was not adequately reflected in the data for the 2-year reference period. In order for an area to be classified as a labor surplus area under the exceptional circumstances criteria, the State employment security agency must submit a petition requesting such classification to the Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration. The addresses of the State employment security agencies are provided on the inside back cover.

The Department of Labor issues the labor surplus area listing on an annual basis. The listing becomes effective each October 1 and remains in effect through the following September 30. During the course of the year, the annual listing is updated on the basis of exceptional circumstances petitions submitted by the State employment security agencies and approved by the Employment and Training Administration.

The reference period used in preparing the new list of labor surplus areas was January 1982 through December 1983. The national average unemployment rate during this period (including data for Puerto Rico) was 9.8 percent. Because the national unemployment rate was above 8.3 percent, the 1.20 ratio was not used and the "ceiling" concept was used instead in preparing the annual listing. As a result, areas were included on the annual labor surplus area listing if their average unemployment rate during the reference period was 10.0 percent or above.

Labor Surplus Area Listing

No additional areas have been classified as labor surplus areas by the U.S. Department of Labor since the annual listing was issued on October 1, 1984. The number of labor surplus areas remains unchanged at 1,825. Following is a complete listing of all 1,825 labor surplus areas and the civil jurisdictions included.

Labor Supply Analysis, Third Quarter 1984

Labor Supply Categories

Each quarter, the Department of Labor classifies over 300 of the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSAs) into one of the six labor supply categories shown below:

| Labor Supply Category | Description | Unemployment Rate ¹ |
|-----------------------|----------------------------|--------------------------------|
| Group A | Critical shortage of labor | Less than 1.5% |
| Group B | Serious shortage of labor | 1.5 to 2.9% |
| Group C | Moderate shortage of labor | 3.0 to 5.9% |
| Group D | Moderate surplus of labor | 6.0 to 8.9% |
| Group E | Serious surplus of labor | 9.0 to 11.9% |
| Group F | Critical surplus of labor | 12.0% or more |

¹ Ratio of unemployment to area's total labor force

Background

The categories used in classifying major labor areas according to the adequacy of the supply of labor represent a continuation of a system which has been in operation for over 25 years. Although modifications have been made in the system from time to time, the present labor supply categories as indicated above are basically unchanged since May 1955.

The labor supply classifications are provided for use in analyzing the relative levels of unemployment among the largest employment centers of the country. The labor supply classifications should not be confused with the listing of labor surplus areas provided in the previous section. The labor supply classifications are prepared for analytical purposes only and are not to be used in determining preference for Federal contracts.

The labor supply classifications provided in this issue cover the third quarter of 1984 and are based upon each area's average labor force data for the months of July, August and September 1984.

Following is a table of the labor supply classifications for 323 labor market areas, comparing the second and third quarters of 1984. The total U.S. civilian unemployment rate for each of the quarters is also provided.

| Labor Supply Category | Third Quarter 1984 | Second Quarter 1984 |
|----------------------------------------------|--------------------|---------------------|
| Total, All Groups | 323 | 323 |
| Group A | 0 | 0 |
| Group B | 3 | 3 |
| Group C | 124 | 117 |
| Group D | 114 | 116 |
| Group E | 53 | 53 |
| Group F | 29 | 34 |
| U.S. Civilian Unemployment Rate ¹ | 7.3 | 7.5 |

The Nation's civilian unemployment rate continued to decline between the second and third quarters of 1984. This decline in the national rate was accompanied by lower labor market area unemployment rates, and thus fewer areas being classified as labor surplus areas and more areas being classified as labor shortage areas. The number of labor surplus areas (Groups D, E, and F) declined from 203 in the second quarter of 1984 to 196 in the third quarter. The number of labor market areas classified as areas of critical labor surplus (Group F), with an unemployment rate of 12.0 percent or more, declined from 34 in the second quarter to 29 in the third quarter. (Most of the areas where the rates went below 12.0 percent were in California and Michigan.) Almost 40 percent of the labor market areas in the nation, 127 out of 323, are classified as areas of labor shortage based upon third quarter 1984 data, in comparison to the 120 areas so designated based upon second quarter 1984 data.

To assist in analyzing trends over time in the relative unemployment levels of the nation's major employment centers, the labor supply classifications are provided for the same 150 areas each quarter. The following table provides a comparison of the labor supply classifications for the 150 areas during the first, second and third quarters of 1984, and the third and fourth quarters of 1983. The total U.S. civilian unemployment rate is also provided for each of the quarters.

| Labor Supply Category | Third Quarter 1984 | Second Quarter 1984 | First Quarter 1984 | Fourth Quarter 1983 | Third Quarter 1983 |
|----------------------------------------------|--------------------|---------------------|--------------------|---------------------|--------------------|
| Total, All Groups | 150 | 150 | 150 | 150 | 150 |
| Group A | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Group B | 1 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Group C | 55 | 55 | 31 | 40 | 16 |
| Group D | 55 | 54 | 54 | 57 | 64 |
| Group E | 29 | 27 | 37 | 29 | 42 |
| Group F | 10 | 13 | 28 | 24 | 28 |
| U.S. Civilian Unemployment Rate ¹ | 7.3 | 7.5 | 7.9 | 8.5 | 9.4 |

1 Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics

The Labor supply classifications for the 150 areas continued to improve as the number of areas classified in Group F (critical surplus of labor—unemployment rate 12.0 percent or more) declined to 10 in the third quarter 1984 from 13 in the second quarter of 1984 and 28 in the third quarter of 1983. The total number of labor surplus areas (Group D, E, and F) remained unchanged at 94 for the second and third quarters of 1984. In comparison, during the third quarter of 1983, 134 out of the 150 major labor areas were classified as areas of moderate (D), serious (E) or critical (F) labor surplus.

Labor Market Areas

Unlike the classification of labor surplus areas for Federal contract preference which are done on the basis of civil jurisdictions, the labor supply classifications are done on a labor market area or metropolitan area basis.

A labor market area means a geographic area in which there is a concentration of economic activity or labor demand and in which workers can readily change jobs without changing their place of residence. The largest labor market areas usually contain at least one central city with a population of 50,000 or more. In most instances, the boundaries of the large labor market areas coincide with the boundaries of the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

While the largest labor market areas are defined in terms of a central city plus the surrounding counties which comprise the metropolitan area, smaller labor market areas are usually defined as one or more counties. In New England, the areas are defined on the basis of groupings of towns which are considered to be the major geographical units.
